

UKCORI
UK Committee on Research Integrity

An introduction to the UK Committee on Research Integrity

Rachael Goberman-Hill (she/her), co-chair, UK Committee on Research Integrity

Presentation at the UK Research Integrity Office Annual Conference, 25th May 2022

UK Committee on Research Integrity (UK CORI)

UK CORI established following a recommendation by the House of Commons Science and Technology Select Committee, 2018

Aims are:

- Promote research integrity
- Create opportunities for discussion, build consensus and develop co-ownership
- Build and communicate the evidence base
- Identify systemic pressures and harness opportunities for change
- Work across the research system, including Universities, public and private sector groups
- Work collaboratively with existing bodies

UK CORI co-chairs

Professor Rachael Gooberman-Hill
Professor Andrew George

Relationship with UK Research & Innovation (UKRI)

- UK CORI is hosted by UKRI on behalf of the sector. UK CORI is not a UKRI committee
- UKRI provides the secretariat and resource
- The project sponsor is UKRI CEO and the project director is the UKRI Head of Research Integrity
- UK CORI sets its agenda independently of UKRI

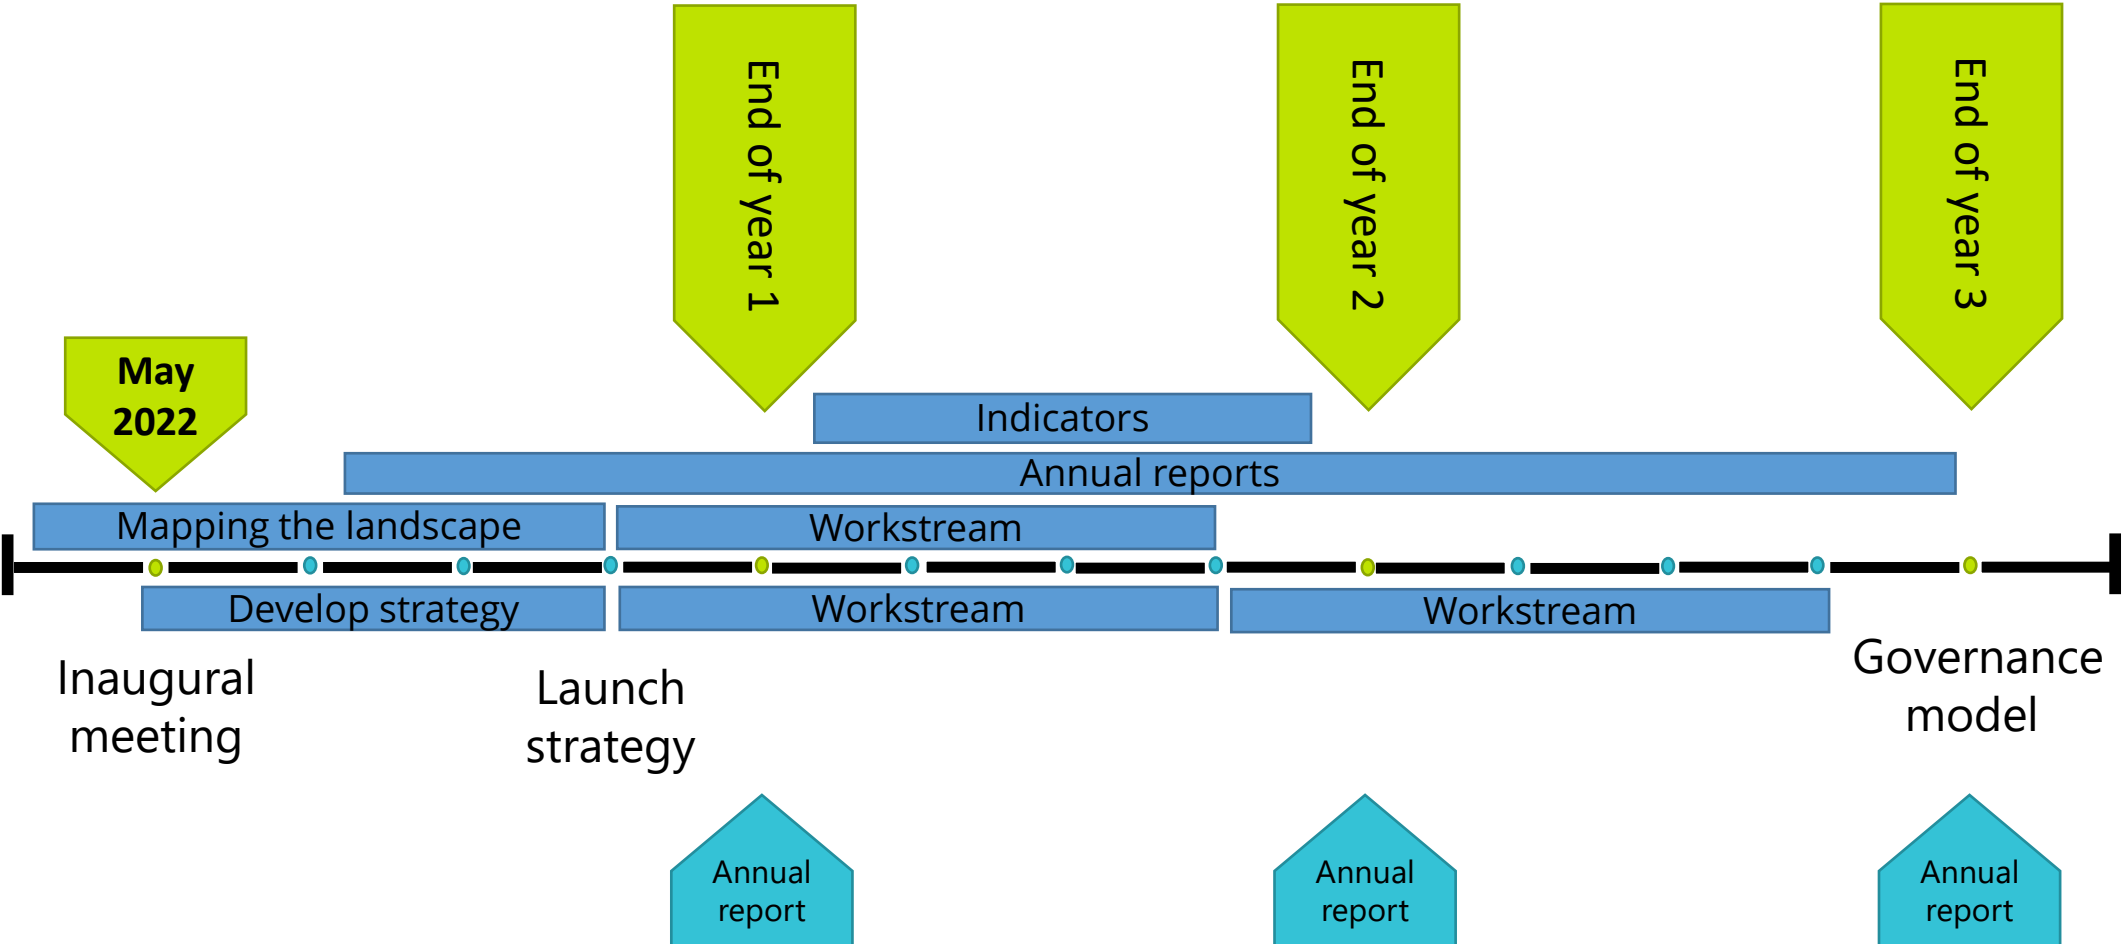

UK Committee on Research Integrity (UK CORI)

- 2 co-chairs and 8 members
- First committee meeting 20th May 2022
- Develop UK CORI strategy
- Develop an annual report
- Listen and create a workplan
- Convene a community of interest
- Work with key partners

Looking forward: the next 3 years of UK CORI

Thank you

Please keep in touch

secretariat@ukcori.org

If you wish to sign-up for newsletter updates, please email and request to join the mailing list.

