

Integrity in practice

Inspiring new behaviours

Dr Frances Downey
Senior policy advisor

The Royal Society and Science Policy

- Science policy since 1662.
- Providing scientific advice for policy is a priority in the Society's strategic plan.
- A part of the Society's core mission. Science and policy interweave and inform all that we do.
- We inform dialogue and action around the world. Science is a global endeavour.

Why do science policy?

- To create scientific insights that inform policies and decisions that change the world.
- To provide evidence to government(s) and parliament to help them make robust decisions.
- To enable science and technology to bring the greatest possible benefits to society.
- To create the environment for excellent science.

Science for policy
What we do

THE ROYAL SOCIETY

Three distinct, complementary strands:

Research Integrity

- A Royal Society statement
- Tools to bring it to life
- Integrity of the research system

1. Research Culture

2. The programme

3. The workshop

Changing Expectations

- Drawing on experiences from the past
- Challenging beliefs and attitudes in the present
- Exploring potential futures

1. Research Culture

2. The programme

3. The workshop

A National Conversation

20
events

15
locations

1000 researchers

2000
face to face hours

THE ROYAL SOCIETY

Science for policy

The Royal Society provides independent, authoritative and accessible scientific advice across six themes:

RESEARCH LANDSCAPE • EDUCATION • WELLBEING •
DATA • RESILIENT FUTURES • NEW HORIZONS

royalsociety.org/topics-policy

Agenda

11.40-11.45	Welcome
11.45- 12.05	Session 1 <ul style="list-style-type: none">- Review case studies- Which example case studies do you find most interesting and inspiring?
12.05-12.30	Session 2 <ul style="list-style-type: none">- Consider adaptations and alternatives- Please think of (or do you know of) any smaller interventions that could achieve similar outcomes?

Thank you

frances.downey@royalsociety.org